

Jim Foreman SOCM

Jim retired in 2018 after 27 years experience in the Navy SEALs. During that time he rose through the ranks to Command Master Chief where he served as a Squadron Master Chief, an Operations Master chief for a 2k member command and finally as the training Master Chief overseeing leadership and training for east coast based SEAL Teams. Jim has 18 deployments with exceptional skills in creating/leading elite teams and projects while seeing them through completion. In 2017 he wrote the "SEAL SOP handbook" outlining roles and responsibilities of both junior and senior leaders as well as describing some basic procedures for SEALs.

Jim currently is lead sales for a gear company called MATBOCK and also runs a company, "Actions on Consulting" where he offers a suite of leadership and training opportunities. Jim has been awarded several awards to include the Silver Star, 8x Bronze Stars, Purple Heart and 5 presidential unit citations.
